A short immersive experience, a really polished gameplay, good acting and story. Well done to Construct Studio.. Still funny :-). this game is very good i say go for it.. It's as good as it looks. Just need to play with people! Buy it hop on line and hit me up!. There are many people exploring bow mechanics and sword mechanics. We have tons of shooters. We know how those work.

This is a horse mechanic. Mounted combat simulator.

You can select your VR comfort level. When you're ready, go for the most realistic version and grab the virtual reins as you lead the charge over the field!

Explore virtual mounted combat and help these developers set the benchmark for horse-riding in VR! Daring!. Great game. Super hard and the crashes are very satisfying. Still better than any of the newer trials games that I've played.

Great, awesome platformer! Last time I had so much fun was with Rayman Legends! Buy ESCAPE GOAT 2! Great graphics, nice pacing, clever mechanics, just... AWESOME GAME!. A clever little action-puzzle platformer about a little girl shooting at tenacles and slimy things with dungeon punk style guns. I've been really looking forward to this one, and I was thankfully not let down.

Add this one to my cute but devious category, This game has a cute, cupcakey hand-painted character look, but has some very tricky gameplay segments that test your tactical planning as much as your reflexes.

In this game, you go room by room, level by level, clearing out enemies and making your way to shoot the evil priest, which is the target of every stage. However, this game is not a Contra-esque action shooter, but more of an action puzzle. Many enemies are traps that leave behind obstacles or fire hard to avoid missiles when killed, and if you go in guns blazing you can end up boxing yourself in. The game also makes copious use of pest-spawning flesh creatures that make being accurate and choosing good footing to advance with important to not getting bowled over by an endless steam of worms.

This is one of the areas where the game does alright. The different weapons all have their uses, while still being adaptable enough to allow the player something of a favorite playstyle. For example, the basic crossbow has enough damage and fire rate to swiftly mow down a swarm of pests, but it is a bit more deliberate against larger enemies or spawner nests. A shotgun blast can scatter groups of small creatures and punish big ones, but it's not the best for driving off an advancing swarm with its slow rate of fire. The fire bow can lock down a spawner or enemy bottleneck, wreathing anything that comes at you in flames, but it is less effective for attacking or hitting moving targets.

It's all pretty cleverly done, and the game never runs out of tricks. There are only about ten unique enemies or so, but it's paced out that even in the later stages you'll encounter new threats and still see previous enemies being used in sinister new ways, as well as getting new weapons and finding new ways to purge.

I don't entirely agree with the scoring system though; especially for a game as short as this. You are rated on time and time only, so the faster you stake the priest, the more medals and weapons you unlock, which can make getting better times on harder levels easier. I feel like the game shines most when you are playing to completion though, taking on each enemy as it's own obstacle and enjoying the challenge of clearing the board as opposed to rushing.

The game is short, but sweet. It can be cleared in under two hours if you are quick. Still, it's got pretty solid core design and I don't think I was cheated for only four dollars.

Overall: It's a nice little adventure with a cute protagonist and some fairly serious challenges. Recommended for classic hardcore arcade fans. If you find yourself longing for some challenging 2D action or are a fan of the old lovecraftian setting, this one is a nice little nut for you to crack.. nice nice nice good one. 6/10 soundtrack, basically bought it to support the writer.. I wanted to give it a thumbs up before i actually started playing but then the system told me i cannot.

For those of you who are still thinking to buy or not - just buy it and enjoy!

Just be reminded the season pass is ridiculously priced so I'll probably pass. (no pun intended). Mousecraft is an entertaining puzzle-game, which is basically a mix of Lemmings and Tetris.

You have to guide three mice (which behave like lemmings) through a level full of dangers to a piece of cheese. To help the mice there are Tetris-like blocks to build a path. New items are introduced step by step in the game which enrich the puzzle experience and bring diversion to the game.

Guiding all three mice to the cheese is more or less easy, but there are also collectible crystals and it can be very tricky to get all of them. Better said: to lead the mice to all crystals.

Despite being an indie game programmed by a small game studio Mousecraft offers good graphics and performance and seems quite professional. And the most important thing: it's quite fun to play!

(Review after 27/80 Levels). A very unconventional platformer for people who want to try something new.

Movement is based on momentum with a number of abilities and tricks available for different situations, all of them difficult to master.
